

Bridging Generations

The iconic red footbridge on North Campus symbolizes the journey from our past to our future as we meet the challenges of bringing the never-changing Word of Truth to an ever-changing culture, honoring our heritage as we teach and reach today's students and those they will influence.

For the Next Generation

BY PRESIDENT JOHN MAURICE

MID-ATLANTIC CHRISTIAN UNIVERSITY is filled with excitement! Students are excited about Christ, eager to learn and grow, building friendships, supporting Mustang athletics, worshipping God during chapel services, and volunteering in our community as the hands and feet of Jesus. There is a spiritual buzz on campus this year – culminating in five baptisms this semester alone!

The majority of our students today come from what is referred to as Generation Z. They are very different from students who enrolled here in 1948, some of whom are remembered as “The Greatest Generation.” In fact, they are very different from the students that enrolled in the mid-seventies when I was a student. Our Generation Z students have been nurtured by omnipresent, optimistic, and focused parents. They have never known a world without computers, cellphones, or tablets. Students feel enormous academic pressure and are driven to succeed like no previous generation. They have always had access to instantaneous information at the touch of a button. They are more diverse than any other generation. In fact, George

Beall’s article 8 Differences Between Gen Z and Millennials notes that “kids today have more in common with their global peers than they do with adults in their own country.” (https://www.huffingtonpost.com/george-beall/8-key-differences-between_b_12814200.html)

Whether we were from the Greatest Generation, Baby Boomers, Gen-X, Millennials, or Gen-Z, Psalm 145 is relevant to our lives. David writes, “One generation commends your works to another; they tell of your mighty acts” (Ps. 145:4). The greatness and majesty of our God must be passed from one generation to another. The gospel is for all people in every generation and in every location. The Great Commission is a command for Christians to “make disciples” of all nations (Matt. 28:19).

In Winning the Next Generation for Christ (Dec. 26, 2017), author Becky Fischer cites a Barna Study and concludes that “only 10% of Americans possess a biblical worldview.” She says that the Millennial Generation is “the most biblically illiterate generation in American History.”

The mission of Mid-Atlantic is “to impact the world for Christ by transforming ordinary people into extraordinary Christian leaders.” Students preparing for ministry in the church or the marketplace are “set for the defense of the gospel” so that they can impact a new generation for Christ (Philippians 1:17).

Through your partnership with Mid-Atlantic, a new generation of leaders is being educated. Students are being challenged to transform their minds, obey the Scriptures, live out the gospel, and share the good news. It happens in the classrooms, the dormitories, discipleship groups, the cafeteria, and Muddy Waters Coffeehouse. This generation of students is being prepared to tell their generation . . . and the next generation of the mighty acts of God (Psalm 145:4).

Faithful until He comes,
John W. Maurice

If you would like to receive President Maurice's bimonthly email letter, send your name, request, and preferred email to president@macuniversity.edu.

At MACU I have found people who believe in me and see worth and potential where I saw shame and depression. Here I have experienced God in a beautifully unique and deeply personal way at my own pace. I am currently a youth minister and a full-time student seeking a degree in Cross-Cultural Ministry. I want to travel to the edge of the world spreading the Gospel and also to start two non-profit businesses, one for adults with special needs and one for the millions of kids stuck in a broken foster system. I cannot stress my gratitude enough for the love and encouragement to dream big.

— DUSTIN MULLINS, SOPHOMORE

Professors at Academic Conferences

Lee M. Fields, Ph.D. Robert W. Smith, Ph.D.

IN NOVEMBER DR. Lee M. Fields and Dr. Robert W. Smith made presentations at three different academic conferences being held in Denver, CO. At The Evangelical Theological Society's Annual Meeting, Dr. Fields, professor of Bible, presented two papers, "Fourth-Semester Hebrew: A Communicative Approach" and "Progress and Regress: Jewish-Christian Dialogue in Antiquity."

Dr. Smith, professor of history and Bible, attended the Near East Archaeological Society Annual Meeting and presented a paper titled "Muslim and Christian Veneration at the Pilgrimage Complex of Abila in Late Antiquity." He also presented a paper at the American Schools of Oriental Research Annual Meeting, "Sense and Sensibility in the Quwayiba Pilgrimage Complex."

Skultety Named to International Board

Patrik Skultety, Ph.D.

DR. PATRIK SKULTETY, assistant professor of management and the LMS administrator at MACU, was invited to serve as a member of the advisory board and scientific committee for the International Scientific Correspondence Conference. The conference, being held at the University of Presov in the Republic of Slovakia, develops the topics of "Economics and Economic Practice - Analysis and Trends" and "Sustainable Development and the Environment." MACU is proud of Dr. Skultety as he represents the university and a Christian worldview in the important areas of economics and the environment.

Two Professors Teaching in Brazil

master's degree program that the Wesleyan-Methodist Church in Brazil is offering for their church leaders. Students at the school Centro de Formacao Teologica are learning "Interpreting the Gospels: Mark"

New Programs Start Fall 2019

MACU HAS ALWAYS trained preachers and at various times has offered a concentration, a major, and/or a minor in preaching. We are pleased to announce the return of a formal program. Starting fall 2019, students may enroll in a preaching minor program or in a preaching concentration within the ministry major.

Two other new programs are a biopsychology major and a Human Resource Management concentration within the current Business Administration major.

The current four- or five-year program B.S. Biblical Studies (from MACU) with Associate Degree in Nursing (from COA) is being replaced by an associate degree, A.A. General Studies (Nursing Preparation Track). This is a two-year program taught solely on campus (65 credit hours) that will cover all the prerequisite courses necessary for someone to complete an associate degree RN program at the local community college (and nearly all other such programs at any school). Someone would only have to take the courses specifically in nursing to complete an RN or could continue longer to complete a BSN.

At COA Mr. Adams has served as the department chair of natural sciences and held a faculty position as associate professor of chemistry and physics. He completed a master's degree in chemistry with a concentration in physical organic chemistry at West Virginia University. He holds a B.S. in chemistry from Longwood University in Farmville, VA, and has completed additional graduate hours in physics from Montana State University. The hiring of Mr. Adams enhances our faculty committed to the university's new biology major and science education major.

Mr. Adams and his wife, Carol, are active members with Towne South Church of Christ in Elizabeth City. Serving in the church in various roles since its founding, he currently oversees the church's benevolence ministry. The university is excited to welcome Bobby Adams to the faculty.
